National Hunger & Homelessness Awareness Week (November 15-22, 2020) is designed to educate the public, draw attention to the problem of poverty, and build up the base of volunteers and supporters for local anti-poverty agencies. We CAN stem the tide of poverty, but we need you to #ShareYourTable to make this happen.

What does #ShareYourTable Mean?

For many of us, the kitchen table is a symbol of home, of family, of comfort and security.
- Say what your table means to you and your family.
- How do you #ShareYourTable with people who have housing or food insecurity?
- How will you commit to volunteering or donating to efforts to increase equity in your community?

Organizers work to expand the table of those fighting for a specific cause.
- How are you advocating for change? Will you commit to voting, but also to holding elected officials accountable throughout the year?
- Do you know what community organizing efforts are happening in your community? Will you commit to joining efforts?

People who have experienced housing or food insecurity are often left out of the decision-making process, leaving an empty seat at the table where legislators and so-called experts debate programs and solutions.
- How do you or your organization ensure that people personally impacted by poverty are respected as the true experts?
- Will you commit to listening to the stories of those most impacted by poverty, and ensuring that your elected officials do the same?
- How do you work to break down negative stereotypes of people experiencing poverty?

Sharing Tips
- Set up the camera to capture you at the table where you eat
- Post your video with the #ShareYourTable hashtag!
- Tag NCH: Facebook/NationalCoalitionfortheHomeless, Twitter @Ntl_Homeless, Instagram @national_homeless
- Join official H&H Week zoom calls

https://hhweek.org

sponsored by the National Coalition for the Homeless and the National Student Campaign Against Hunger and Homelessness